Amazing Grace

Welcome and Opening Words

Poem

One Of A Kind
read by niece, Becky Day

Today we gather, hearts held tight,
To honour Susan, our guiding light.
Yet words alone could never convey
The love you gave along life's way.

You were more than an auntie, more than a friend,
A love so constant, without an end.
A source of laughter, warmth, and grace,
A truly remarkable woman no one could replace.

You lived life boldly, with style and flair,
A touch of glamour beyond compare.
Always elegant, always bright,
Turning every entrance into pure delight.

A businesswoman through and through,
Strong, determined, and endlessly true.
With vision, courage, and boundless drive,
You showed us all how dreams can thrive.

The hostess with the mostess, that was you,
Opening your home and your heart to all who came through.
A table filled with love, a glass raised high,
Creating memories that time can never deny.

You welcomed all with an open heart,
Making each person feel a part.
With caring words and a smiling face,
You brought comfort, kindness, and endless grace.

The memories you leave are treasures untold,
More precious than silver, more precious than gold.
The talks we shared, the laughter we knew,
Are gifts we will carry because of you.

Though sorrow lingers and tears may fall,
Your love remains and surrounds us all.
For those we love never truly depart,
They leave their footprints upon the heart.

Life may have taken you from our sight,
But your spirit still shines, steady and bright.
In your children, your family, and all whom you knew,
A part of your beautiful soul lives through.

We will remember your sparkle, your laughter, your style,
The way you could brighten a room with a smile.
The confidence, warmth, and joy you shared,
And the countless ways you showed how much you cared.

So today we say goodbye, though not forever,
For love is a bond that time cannot sever.
Through every memory, smile, and tear,
Your presence will always be with us here.

Rest peacefully now, your journey complete,
With heaven's gardens beneath your feet.
And while we miss you more than words can say,
Our love for you will never fade away.

Parting Words

Poem

Love Beyond Goodbye
read by son, Jonathan Mills

I am home now, my dear ones,
Please do not search for me there,
For although you cannot see me,
You will still find me everywhere.

The pain has left me gently,
The difficult days are done,
And now I rest in peace at last,
My journey here is done.

I know your hearts are hurting,
I know this feels unfair,
I know there are a thousand things
You wish we still could share.

Please do not remember only
The final days we knew,
Remember all the laughter,
The ordinary moments too.

Remember that I loved you fiercely,
In ways words cannot explain,
And if I had the choice to stay,
I would do it all again.

To my boys, stand strong together,
Look after one another still,
Carry forward what I started,
And know that this would be my will.

To my grandchildren, keep smiling,
Keep growing, keep being free,
For every milestone still to come,
A part of me you'll always carry.

And when life feels overwhelming,
Or the road ahead seems long,
Remember all the strength you have Because that strength is where I live on.

There is still life waiting for you,
Still memories left to make,
Still reasons to keep moving,
Even with hearts that ache.

So when you think about me,
Do not think only of goodbye,
Think instead of love that stays,
Long after we die.

Because although today you let me rest,
And though we must be apart,
You do not carry me in your hands now,
You carry me in your hearts.

And there,
Is where I will always remain,
Through every joy,
Through every pain,
Until your time comes,
As all things do,
And I am waiting here
To walk once more with you.
