WORDS OF WELCOME

POEM

The Last Dance

They said you lit the room before you even spoke,
a spark in your smile, a laugh that caught like fire.
You wore joy like a jacket, bright and unbuttoned,
inviting everyone in from the cold.

Even now, I can hear the clink of your glass,
the rhythm of your stories spilling into the night,
how you'd pull the shy ones to the centre,
teach them the steps they didn't know they knew.

You were the chorus in every song,
the punchline we never saw coming,
the heartbeat that kept the music alive.

And though the lights have dimmed
and the floor stands empty,

I swear—

somewhere you're still dancing, and the rest of us are just waiting for the moment we can join you again.

HYMN

The Lord's my Shepherd, I'll not want;
He makes me down to lie
In pastures green; He leadeth me
The quiet waters by.

My soul He doth restore again,
And me to walk doth make
Within the paths of righteousness,
E'en for His own Name's sake.

Yea, though I walk through death's dark vale,
Yet will I fear none ill;
For Thou art with me, and Thy rod
And staff me comfort still.

My table Thou hast furnishèd
In presence of my foes;
My head Thou dost with oil anoint,
And my cup overflows.

Goodness and mercy all my life
Shall surely follow me;
And in God's house for evermore
My dwelling-place shall be.
