Welcome and Opening Words

Poem

Remember Me by Anthony Dowson

Speak of me as you have always done.
Remember the good times, laughter, and fun.
Share the happy memories we've made.
Do not let them wither or fade.
I'll be with you in the summer's sun
And when the winter's chill has come.
I'll be the voice that whispers in the breeze.
I'm peaceful now, put your mind at ease.
I've rested my eyes and gone to sleep,
But memories we've shared are yours to keep.
Sometimes our final days may be a test,
But remember me when I was at my best.
Although things may not be the same,
Don't be afraid to use my name.
Let your sorrow last for just a while.
Comfort each other and try to smile.
I've lived a life filled with joy and fun.
Live on now, make me proud of what you'll become.

Committal and Farewell

Poem

In Rest, They Remember
by Donna Ashworth

Some people are slowly taken to the other realm, not physically, but mentally.

Memory by memory,
they are pulled from us,
like a painstakingly slow house-move.

Boxes full of life,
chapters, people, loves
all packed into a van,
to wait their arrival on the other side.

And as these parts are removed,
those left feel lonelier daily
as though their love is already leaving them.

It is a painful departure, my friends,
this much is sadly true,
but I like to think of the person we knew,
reaching the other side, finally once more whole.

And upon arrival they see their boxes.
Awaiting them so long,
they open them up,
the chapters, the memories, the loves,
and reunite with them all again.

I can feel that heartfelt joy
and it brings me joy too.

They are not lost for long,
though it may feel so.

In rest, they remember it all.
